Coshocton Loses Fight For State Grange; Newark Chosen

Dayton And Bryan Supporters Throw Votes To Newark After First Ballot Is Taken -- Meyers Thrills Delegates With Speech on Behalf Of Coshocton.

The 1916 meeting of the State grange will be held at Newark.

Coshocton boosters lost the fight at Elyria yesterday when Dayton and Bryan supporters threw their votes to Newark on the second ballot.

The first news of the result of the vote reached Coshocton in the form of a telegram yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock from Secretary D. G. Gayle, of the Coshocton Chamber of Commerce, to E. W. Heinke, chairman of the committee which had charge of the fight. The message read:

Newark wins convention. Close race and hard fought.

Gayle.

Mr. Gayle was reached in Cleveland by The Tribune over long distance telephone last night and told the story of the fight.

"Just before taking the ballot on the place for holding the 1916 meeting," said Secretary Gayle, "a resolution was passed to the effect that at least 105 votes would be required to decide the question. On the first ballot the vote stood as follows:

Newark 86.
Coshocton 80.
Bryan 29.
Dayton 15.

"Before taking the second ballot Dayton and Bryan adherents got together and threw their support to Newark thus giving that city more than the required number of votes.

"The resolution requiring 105 votes to decide the question was entirely unexpected and we had figured that we would carry enough votes on the first ballot to win. We interviewed practically every delegate in behalf of Coshocton and until shortly before the ballot was taken our chances looked mighty bright.

"As a final shot in our campaign, Joe L. Myers extended the invitations to the grangers to hold their 1916 meeting in Coshocton. Delegates told me that Myers' speech was the finest ever heard at a state grange meeting. He read all of the telegrams received from various organizations and industries in Coshocton welcoming the grangers and wound up by presenting a gilded key five feet in length, on which was printed, "Key to Coshocton—1916."

Good Night.

Representing the Chamber of Commerce at the meeting in addition to Secretary Gayle, were: Lee Moore, of Mohawk; George Stonebocker, of Oak Grove, and James Clark, of Warsaw.

There were seven representatives of grangers in county: Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Clark, of Keene hill grange; Mr. and Mrs. Mark Valentine, of Oak Grove grange; Joe L. Myers, of Perry grange; Mr. and Mrs. J. Van Winkle, of Fresno grange.

The entire representation from Coshocton county worked unceasingly to land the state meeting for this city and the news of Newark's victory was a decided disappointment not only to the Chamber of Commerce but to members of various granges thruout the county. Since the state meeting began last Tuesday, Coshocton boosters have been carrying on the fight. Telegrams signed by more than one hundred business men and public spirited citizens were sent to the meeting and the vote proves that the fight was a good one.

Hope For 1918.

There is said to be no chance to land the 1917 meeting on account of the fact that it is not customary to hold consecutive conventions in the same section of the state. However, plans are already being made to land the meeting for Coshocton in 1918 and it is believed that the fight this year will make the realization of this hope comparatively easy. As one members of the Chamber of Commerce expressed it last night, "They know we are on the map and we have placed ourselves in such a position that in 1918 we can begin where we left off today instead of having to fight for recognition."

Local Churches To Issue A Statement

This evening at 7 o'clock at the [illegible] in the city, First Presbyterian church a meeting of representatives from each of the twelve churches represented by the Coshocton Ministerial association, will be held for the purpose of formulating a statement giving the attitude of the churches toward a general Sunday observance in the city.

The statement it is said will not [illegible] any particular line of business being opened on Sunday but will be an expression from the churches toward all forms of Sunday opening.

The men selected to draw up this statement have been officially appointed by the boards of their various churches and delegated to speak for the church which they represent. They are reliable business and professional men, of many years' residence in the city and whose interests are centered in Coshocton.

The statement will be published in Saturday morning's Tribune.

Austrians Fail To Meet Demand For Disavowal

Request For More Time And Further Negotiations--Question Right Of U. S. Note--No Quibbling Will Be Tolerated By Washington, It Is Said.

Washington, Dec. 16.—Austria must comply directly or refuse in every respect to the demands of the United States in the Ancona case.

With reports indicating the Austro-Hungarian government is playing for time, this attitude of the administration outlined in detail today by an official close to Secretary Lansing.

The United States is firm it is said, in refusing to give further reasons for her demands on the Austrian government.

If Austria regards her course with regard to Servia which brought about the European war as justified then Vienna cannot insist that the United States furnish details on which it demands a disavowal, reparation and punishment of the submarine commander, were based.

The cases are identical.

Reply Expected.

Washington, Dec. 16.—An unofficial report at the state department today said the Austrian note replying to the American demands concerning the Ancona were cabled to Berne, Switzerland, last night to be forwarded from there today. It was expected to reach here tonight.

Would Quibble.

Amsterdam, Dec. 16.—Austria fails to meet the American demand for the prompt disavowal of the sinking of the Italian liner Ancona in reply to the American note.

Vienna dispatches today said Austria's reply was delivered to Ambassador Penfield yesterday. It contained a request for time and further negotiations.

Austria makes no reply to the American demand that the commander of the submarine be punished.

There is every reason to believe, it was reported, that Austria will never consent to the step. Austria has expressed the desire to exchange views with the United States with the idea of arriving at a settlement.

The Austrian government suggests that the American government state more clearly the reason for questioning the acts of its submarine commander.

Austria readily assents to the demand that reparation be made for American lives lost.

Had Been Notified.

Washington, Dec. 16.—The state department took steps to prove that Austria was officially notified months ago of this government's position regarding submarine war fare on passenger-carrying vessels.

Secretary Lansin had the records of the state department examined to find if copies of the Lusitania notes sent to Germany were delivered to the Austrian embassy here.

The records show that the copies were delivered and officials made it plain that they consider that this constitutes official notification.

It was stated in official circles that any reply from Austria based on the claim that that country did not know this government's position on submarine warfare will be rejected peremptorily by the United States. No official word was received from Vienna regarding when an answer may be expected to the note.

Auto Starts Off Without The Driver

One of the Sprague taxi cabs, which had been left standing in front of the Barnes hotel on South Fifth street, Thursday afternoon, ran amuck causing considerable excitement for a few minutes. The driver of the machine was in the Barnes hotel when a post office employe, fearing that the mail clerk on a westbound Pennsy train which was due in a short time, might throw the mail pouches thru the windshield, attempted to drive the auto to the west side of the street. Unable to start the machine he left it in high gear.

A short time later the Wellsville passenger train backed in and the engineer so that the auto blocked the express car door. In attempting to push the engine forward, Sprague and another man started the engine of the car. The auto started toward Main street but Sprague caught it in time to prevent any damage.

WEST LAFAYETTE COLLEGE SECURES FAST TEAMS

The West Lafayette college team will play their opening game at Marietta when they meet the Marietta college aggregation next Thursday. The local team is moving in fast company when they play such teams as Marietta, which has this year scheduled the Michigan "Aggies," Notre Dame university, West Virginia, Wesleyan and West Virginia universities, besides other games in Michigan Indiana and Ohio.

The schedule of West Lafayette college has not as yet been completed, but included West Virginia university, Marietta, Otterbein, Ohio Northern, Franklin, Findlay and Kent. These teams have either signed for games or are under negotiation, promising the local fans some real sport before the close of the season.

The team appears well on the floor and is speeding up under Coach Grimm's instruction. Although West Lafayette college has lost some heavy material thru graduation and change of location, the positions have been filled with fast men who entered school this year.

Following is the varsity lineup:
R. F., Beck.
L. F., Little.
C., Grimm.

Right guard and left guard will be chosen from Baker, Clark, Leinghuinger and McCleary.

Coach, Grimm.
Manager, Koch.

THEATRES

"THE BETTER WOMAN"

A Strikingly Realistic Photodrama of Love, Jealousy, Crime and Redemption.

In "The Better Woman," the next release on the Equitable program at the Mystic Theatre, which will be shown today, Lenore Ulrich, the popular motion picture star, enacts the difficult part of a young woman who, brought up amid the untoward surroundings of a western mining town, falls in love with an engineer who comes there on an important work, commits a crime to win him from the eastern girl to whom he is engaged, marries him and goes to his home in the east, where she struggles against her early training and the girl she has dethroned in an effort to reach a higher social level. Circumstances lead to her confessing the crime she has committed; she loses her husband's growing love, but back in the western town she performs an act of heroism which shows her husband that she is really the better woman of the two, and wins his lasting love thru what was almost a futile self-sacrifice.

LAFAYETTE TO PLAY DRESDEN

Has the Most Legs.

The little centiped which bears the distinction of owning an extra foot than any other animal, is found living in the millipede, which literally means the "thousand legged." There are several species of this curious worm, all possessing a long, narrow body, with many pairs of legs. Some of the species—though rare—have as many as 750 legs, while the "pill millipede"—they are perfectly harmless.

SUPPOSED FIRE CAUSES SCARE IN HEART OF THE BUSINESS SECTION

A number people who were on the street Thursday night about 10 o'clock between 4th and 5th streets had a lively scare thrown into them by a glare directly above the Coshocton Light and Heating Co. offices in the Rinehart building, the first to see it were positive that the building was ablaze in the rear, as the reflection cast on the clouds looked exactly like that thrown by a blaze of no small magnitude, and a hurried search was made of the premises but no fire was found. There, on the rear of the Thompson Block adjoining, and a portion of the rear of the Hastings Block adjoining, could not be explained, so of the crowd present that first it must be from its rear light, but none could be located which could solve the reflection it was in. From across the street in front of the entrance to the Cinderella Theatre it could very largely and clear, and the scene promised to go down in Coshocton's history as one more unsolved mystery, when one of the party happened to walk toward the railroad twenty or thirty feet, and the reflection suddenly went out, and then came on again, increasing its steps very slowly until the light disappeared again, it was found that the brilliant gleams came from an elaborate display of Holiday goods in Brooke's jewelry store windows, and if you will reflect upon this reflection it may prevent a damp of disappointment to some member of your household on Christmas morning.

LIFE IN OPORTO.

Pen Picture of a Busy Seaport City In Northern Portugal.

The life of the common people of Oporto centers in the Praca da Ribeira, an irregular little square, foul and dust swept, down by the river front. Here ox teams and longshoremen come in contact with the queer craft of the harbor and take up their burdens. Here one may best study the strange rigs of the boats and the picturesque hulls of the barcos de volde, shaped like gondolas; the flat bottomed pants and, most characteristic of all, the high pooped barcos rabello, the great boats that bring their precious cargoes of port wine through shoal and sand bar down the turbid Douro to the warehouses of Oporto.

Colliers from England, coasting ships from Bordeaux and Galicia and native vessels from the Azores complete the background. The larger liners no longer pass the treacherous bar, but anchor instead in the new artificial harbor at Leixoes, a few miles away.

The broad quay that skirts the river reflects this cosmopolitan life and recalls picturesque Santa Lucia in the heyday of its squalor and activity. The city wall that borders it is honeycombed with the troglodytic shops of ship chandlers, sailors' retreats and evil smelling barrooms. The houses that overlook it flaunt drying linen and pots of gaudy flowers to the sun; the motley throng that crowds its granite quay are sturdy sea folk, bronzed and weathered by wind and spray. The houses rise abruptly one above another, topped at last by the huge hulk of the bishop's palace, looming at the end of the iron bridge, the Ponte de Dona Luis Primeiro, that leaps the Douro from bank to bank on the daring sweep of its single skeleton arch.

The streets that lead from the quay to the upper town are quite in contrast—dark, tortuous and overshadowed by tall houses and narrow shaded by projecting balconies. In their open shops cobblers and carpenters, saddlers and bookbinders ply their trades, using tools and implements of centuries ago. Especially noticeable is one dark alley filled with coopers, in which was a din of hammers beating on brass, copper and iron hoops, and staves thrown back and forth from wall to wall, that my senses nearly left me. Yet still the players kept steadily in the gutter, while housewives hung out their linen on the balconies overhead, miles of ribbons and seemingly countless—almost Pelzetto in Seribe's.

The Grimshaw-Greene Secret

By LOUISE B. CUMMINGS

In one of the regiments that sailed from Florida for the Spanish American war were Privates Tom Grimshaw and Oliver Greene, who appeared to be intimate friends. Grimshaw was out not for a soldier, but Greene was not, being of slight build and feminine appearance. He gave his age at eighteen, but it was doubted by his comrades if he were so old as that. Either his voice had not changed or it was that of a boy of manhood or it was naturally high pitched and squeaky.

During the early part of the term of service of the two lads they were very companionable. Whenever they were permitted to leave camp they went together and were rarely together. Their comrades wondered why Grimshaw chose a chum of such different nature from himself, but some one suggested that most warm friendships were of that kind. When two persons come together permanently one should be yielding.

After awhile it was noised that a soldier named Evans was added to the duo, making a trio. He was more like Grimshaw than Greene, being a larger man and stronger than either of the other two.

The trio friendship lasted but a few days, and it was noised from the first that Grimshaw did not relish the advent of Evans into their companionship. Then the trio changed. Greene was alternately hobnobbing with Evans and with Grimshaw, while the two latter had nothing to do with each other.

Evans was made a sergeant, and this gave him some authority over Grimshaw and Greene. He never lost an opportunity to domineer over the former nor to make Greene's duties lighter. Greene was frequently seen arguing earnestly with Grimshaw, and although little or nothing was heard of what he was saying to his friend it was supposed that he was trying to keep the peace between his two friends. He seemed to incline to his first friend, Grimshaw, but the more he did so the more Evans seemed to be antagonized against both the other two.

During an interval in the fighting at Santiago Grimshaw and Evans were seen to go off by themselves, and after awhile Grimshaw returned with a black eye. When Evans came in a little later it was noticed that there was blood on his shirt. Since he gave no sign of a wound it was surmised that he had received a blow on the nose which had drawn the claret. Neither of the men would give any explanation as to what had happened, but it was evident that they had had a fist fight, and this view was confirmed by their keeping apart thereafter.

For the next few days Greene seemed to be much troubled. He evidently sided with Grimshaw, for he had very little to say to Evans, who was glum, keeping much by himself except when performing military duties. Then the fighting increased, and the regiment was so incessantly engaged that this little play being enacted between three soldiers was dwarfed by more important matters.

Toward the close of the fighting at Santiago Greene was severely wounded. He was picked up and carried to the rear on a stretcher. A surgeon attended him, and he was placed in the hospital.

Wickersham, of his company, who was discharged from the hospital, reported that Greene had been taken from the ward in which he had been first placed and given a room by himself. This was considered remarkable, for it won't not have been supposed unless the invalid had been dangerously wounded, which was not the case.

Then it began known that Grimshaw had died of his chum, for there was no evidence that Evans had done so. By this time the boys had begun to chaff Grimshaw and Evans about their relations to the friendship of Greene and to call Evans who he did not also visit his wounded friend. Evans turned on his heel and walked away without a reply.

Soon after this the war closed, and the troops were removed to Montauk Point, Long Island. Grimshaw was one of the first to be mustered out. Evans was detailed to guard the hospital. Greene was discharged, but was not able to leave his cot. Grimshaw and Evans left camp without seeing him.

Grimshaw met one of his war comrades on the street and asked him to dine with him, as he had been married and wished to introduce him to his wife. When the guest met Mrs. Grimshaw he looked at her in a sort of bewilderment.

"Are you or are you not Oliver Greene?" he asked.

"I am Olivia Greene Grimshaw."

Then Tom Grimshaw explained.

He and Olivia Greene had been married before the Cuban war, and, either from a desire to be with her husband or a love of adventure, or both, she had enlisted in the same company with him. Evans had discovered her sex, but not that she was a wife. He had made love to her and, jealous of Grimshaw, had threatened to reveal her secret. That was all there was to the mystery. Mrs. Grimshaw's sex was discovered by the surgeon who attended her when wounded, and she was placed in a room by herself.

Nose Rings.

Hindu married women wear a nose ring of the value suitable to their position. Sometimes it is simply a wire of gold; sometimes it is set with valuable and brilliant diamonds. Of whatever description, the nose ring is a most hallowed thing. If you are not careful how you speak with the lady about it or if you say, "There is no necessity for wearing such a useless thing," she will understand by this that you wish her husband's death.

Inventor of the Sandwich.

The sandwich is said to have taken its name from the English Lord Sandwich, who liked to gamble too well to leave the table, so had a servant bring him chunks of meat hidden between slices of bread. A hungry tramp getting his handout at the back door would never have written about the sprightly Lord S. the words of a contemporary of his:

The infamous to have a friend,
The bad for bad men to command.

PRINCE CARL & CO. AT THE PASTIME.

In spite of the bad weather, Prince Carl and Co. drew a big house at The Pastime theatre last night and gave a very pleasing show. Prince Carl, the Czar of Jail Breakers, does some wonderful stunts with chains, ropes and straight jackets. All of his work is done in full view of the audience. He uses no cabinet to cover or conceal any part of his work. In connection with this act Vernecce, Hartzler and Mathews are seen in a clever little comedy sketch, "Three Maids and a Man." Music, mirth and melody reign during this act.

There will be an entire change of program today. Prince Carl will be seen in his wild ride tonight at 6 o'clock in front of the theatre. This is an act well worth seeing.

"The Country Parson," Balzac's great drama of the futility of crime, directed by Travers Vale, a Biograph in 3 acts, will be the film offering for today and Saturday.

OAK GROVE, the improved butterine, has that real creamery butter flavor and the quality always the same. At all grocers.

Miss Timmons A Contestant

Miss Phedora Timmons, 304 Chestnut street, Coshocton, Ohio, has entered the "Beauty and Brains" contest being conducted by the PHOTOPLAY MAGAZINE in conjunction with the World Film Corporation.

The proposition is to send eleven young women to the studios at Fort Lee, New Jersey, across the river from New York City, where they will be given a thorough tryout as film actresses. All of their expenses will be paid on this trip and if they show any talent they will be given contracts for a period of not less than one year at regular salaries paid to stars.

No effort will be spared to make film stars of these young women. Miss Lillian Russell and William A. Brady are among the judges of the contest. Their experience and reputation alone assures contestants of every possible consideration based solely upon ability.

Other Coshocton entrants in this contest are Miss Leone Carton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Carton, of North Eighth street and Miss Marie Wells, who lives south of the city on the river road.

Quick Beauty from Purer Blood

All Pimples, Blackheads, Boils and Impurities Leave Quickly by Using the Greatest Blood Purifier, Stuart's Calcium Wafers.

The action of Stuart's Calcium Wafers is wonderful indeed. The causes of nearly all your complexions are the impurities in the blood, and which show thru the outer skin tissue. The blood is constantly in motion, so that no complexion can ever be beautified unless the entire blood stream is purified. This is why face creams and cosmetics utterly fail to give real beauty.

"Ladies, Only Pure Blood Ever Makes a Queenly Complexion. I Know!"

Stuart's Calcium Wafers are the most powerful blood purifiers which science has ever discovered. They at once begin their work and in a few days the result is seen in the quick disappearance of all pimples, red spots, boils, muddy complexion, rash, fetter and skin discolorations.

Stuart's Calcium Wafers are harmless, very pleasant to the taste, are put up in convenient form to carry, and can be obtained at any drug store, at 50 cents a box.

Follow the example of hundreds upon thousands of women who have been made beautiful in this way. Send coupon below today for free sample package.

THE NEWEST REMEDY FOR

Backache, Rheumatism and Dropsy.

Kidney, Bladder and Uric Acid troubles bring misery to many. When the kidneys are weak or diseased, these natural filters do not cleanse the blood sufficiently, and the poisons are carried to all parts of the body. There follow depression, aches and pains, heaviness, drowsiness, irritability, headaches, dizziness and rheumatism. In some people there are sharp pains in the back and loins, distressing bladder disorders and sometimes diabetic dropsy. The uric acid sometimes forms sandgrave or kidney stones. When the uric acid affects the muscles and joints it causes lumbago, rheumatism, gout or sciatica. There is the time to try "Anuric."

During digestion uric acid is absorbed into the system from meat foods, and even from certain vegetables. The fact that Anuric (1 tried and tested ingredient) is a guaranteed solvent for uric acid, the known efficiency of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and Nature's own remedies for many deadly kidney troubles, should encourage doctors always use the water of an acid test before a policy will be issued. Have you ever made a test of your water for twenty-four hours? A heavy sediment or brick dust deposit, or cloudiness of any kind, indicates disease of the kidneys. The true picture and character of disease, especially those of the kidneys and urinary organs, can often be determined by a careful chemical and microscopical examination of the urine by expert chemists of the Medical Staff of the Invalids' Hotel. If you wish to have your water examined, send a sample of it or write to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., and describe your symptoms. It will be carefully and without any expense to you, and Doctor Pierce or his Staff of Associate Physicians will inform you truthfully.

KNOW THYSELF.

Read all about yourself, your system, the physiology of life, anatomy, hygiene, simple home cures, etc., in the "Common Sense Medical Adviser," a book of 1008 pages. Send to Dr. V. M. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., three dimes or 30 cents in one-cent stamps for a cloth-bound copy.

THE LANCASHIRE SPINNERS

The New York Globe draws an interesting comparison between the present war and the Civil War and the attitude of the North on the problem of contraband growing out of the blockade of the South. "Some old papers," the Globe says, "this country was engaged in a great struggle on whose result depended the question whether a republic dedicated to liberty and democracy would endure.

An incident of the struggle was a blockade, not always well maintained, of the coasts of the seceded states. But our cruisers seized everything shipped from the Confederacy or bound for it. Lincoln and Seward, sustained by the Supreme Court, set up the doctrine of the "continuous voyage." Where flagrant non-contraband cargoes consigned to neutral ports, saying that the circumstances showed that their ultimate destination was the Confederacy.

An incident of the struggle was a blockade, not always well maintained, greatly interfering with imports of British industries. The cotton mills of Lancashire could not get their raw material, and many, many thousands lost their accustomed work. Those who pretended to knowledge of international law were resigned to their own satisfaction that the blockade was not completely effective, and, if not effective, it was said to be grossly illegal.

It was declared that this country had no right to presume that the goods poured into Nassau and Havana were to be sent further—that anyway a neutral had a right to ship noncontraband goods to supply the needs of the civilians of a belligerent. That the United States should attempt to starve the people of the Confederacy was denounced not merely as an illegal but as an abominable thing. In fact, almost everything contained in the recent Lansing note was contained in the official and unofficial representations that came from Great Britain during the dark days of the civil war.

Henry Ward Beecher, friend of human freedom and advocate of democratic progress, journeyed to England, even to Lancashire. He stood before the spinners of Manchester and argued his case. The first instinct was to mob him. But slowly he made himself heard. He said two things. First, the federal government, making due allowance for changes in conditions and the nature of the problem, was doing no more in the way of blockade than Great Britain had done in wars to which she was a party; second, that the federal government, in its championship of democracy, was entitled to sympathy from right-minded Englishmen—that in struggling to end slavery it was fighting the battle of every Englishman, and that this factor should be considered in judging the facts of the contest.

Beecher's view was generously accepted. Drawing their belts a little tighter about their empty stomachs the Lancashire spinners said that fair play required that Americans should be allowed to do what Britain had done under like circumstances, and that they were willing to bear discomfort rather than help the wrong side. The British government ceased to be bombarded with demands that it blow the blockade to pieces with the guns of its fleet, and the great crisis passed.

Complaints now being heard in this country against the illegality of the British blockade of Germany are strongly reminiscent of British complaints of half a century ago. Those attacking the "continuous voyage" doctrine as now applied by Great Britain can find their arguments all prepared. And the present defense of Great Britain is practically the same defense that we made that Great Britain is doing now, and, let us own aside, that the United States did and that we do, "We say to-day that Great Britain is fighting for democracy.

AS WE GROW OLDER

our minds are quite as active as in former years but our strength does not respond when we need it most; perhaps the kidneys are weak, the liver torpid, rheumatic pains or stiffened joints beset us, and we cannot easily throw off the colds that winter brings.

What we need is the rich cod liver oil in Scott's Emulsion to renew the blood and carry strength to every organ of the body, while its glycerine soothes the respiratory tract, and its hypophosphites strengthen the excitable nerves.

Scott's Emulsion is a scientific oil-food, of unusual benefit to those past fifty years—particularly during the colder seasons, it imparts warmth and creates strength. One bottle will prove its worth. No alcohol or harmful drugs.

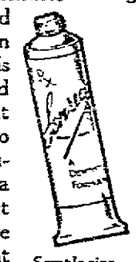
The most widespread disease in the world

The most widespread disease in the world today is that dread affection of the teeth called pyorrhea. Nine out of every ten grown persons have it to some extent. You may have it and be unaware of it. Why? Because scientists have proved that the cause of this disease is a germ which inhabits every human mouth, and that thousands have this disease and do not realize it until it reaches the advanced stages of bleeding gums and loose teeth.

Accept the advice dentists everywhere are giving and take special precautions in your daily toilet against this disease. To meet the need for such a daily treatment and to enable everyone to take the necessary precautions against this disease, a prominent dentist has put his own prescription before the public in the convenient form of Senreco Tooth Paste.



Sample size

Senreco contains the best corrective and preventive for pyorrhea known to dental science. Used daily it will successfully protect your teeth from this disease. Senreco also contains the best harmless agent for keeping the teeth clean and white. It has a refreshing flavor and leaves a wholesomely clean, cool and pleasant taste in the mouth.

Start the Senreco treatment tonight—full details in the folder wrapped around every tube. Symptoms described. A 25c two oz. tube is sufficient for six or eight weeks of the pyorrhea treatment. Get Senreco at your druggists today, or send 4c in stamps or coin for sample tube and folder. Address The Sentanel Remedies Co., 507 Union Central Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio.

APES OF GIBRALTAR.

They Are Highly Prized and Protected by the Authorities.

The rock of Gibraltar is the home of a highly prized and carefully protected tribe of Barbary apes. The chief of this tribe is one Major, and in Gibraltar there is a saying that it "were better to jail the governor than Major."

This band of apes numbers about twenty. They came, mysteriously enough, from Africa many years ago and claim citizenship in Europe. They are duly protected by the authorities, and any addition by birth to their number is carefully chronicled and announced in the local press.

These apes transfer their abode from time to time, according to the state of the weather, from the highest parts of the rock to lower and more sheltered places. They indulge their sense of humor at times by throwing stones at the soldiers. They may not be seen for weeks at a time, save in the early morning hours.

A few years ago, on account of the diminishing numbers of these creatures, some apes were procured from Barbary and turned loose upon the rock, but the resident apes killed them all. Although averse to intruders of their own kind, they never attack human beings and are greatly esteemed.

Envious.

Howell—I'm engaged to Miss Rowell. Congratulate me, old man. Powell—I would if I did not know that in her case a nomination is not equivalent to an election.—Smart Set.
